The horse is an image strongly associated with Kentucky. The Living Arts and Science Center featured an exhibition this past spring of equine art to celebrate the horse and its deep roots in the Bluegrass. Today, the practice is as strong as ever with many talented artists using the horse or things associated with the equine industry as subject matter.
The Horse

The Horse featured a diverse group of gifted artists who depict the subtle beauty of one of Kentucky’s most recognized icons with paint, pencil, and charcoal.

For this exhibition, the Living Arts and Science Center did a national call for equine art. The results of this call were on display in the LASC’s Atrium Gallery. The full exhibition was presented January 27th through May 23rd, 2020.
